THE ANALYSIS OF LIGHT: A FORCE OF NATURE (CLASSIC REPRINT) (PAPERBACK)

Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****. Excerpt from The Analysis of Light: A Force of Nature The forces of nature, so called, are all alike and are really but one force. The seeming variations produced are the direct result of the manner in which this force is applied upon inert matter, the elements and different bodies. This same force, acting in conjunction with cer tain elements, will produce and impress upon the visual nerves that which is called Light, while this very same force, acting upon other gaseous matters, will impart the sensation of sound motion, or give the impression of heat. The difference in the manifestations of these results is due entirely to the nature of the elements upon which and the manner in which the energy is applied. The force, however, is one and the same. This being so, whenever energy is applied, one or more of these results must become manifest. Frequently, light, sound, heat and motion will jointly result from the same exertion of energy, as is illustrated by the discharge of a fire-arm. It is this same invisible force which rotates the earth, moves the ocean and the atmosphere, creates the seasons, provides those elements which are essential to the continuance of life, and gives life itself to the animals and the vegetable kingdom. A complete understanding of this universal force will be necessary before satisfactory knowledge of its various phenomena can be obtained. Light is the result of energy, and as such is conveyed across space and felt upon the visual nerves. It is a force which can be measured and accounted for in every respect. There can be no imaginary waves of rarefied and condensed air vibrating themselves into Space by a...
