The writer is a stranger to me, and pleads great distress. He says he has been an officer in the East India service, and makes out a long list of grievances, against the Company and a Mr. S. He charges the Government with sending him home without a trial, and breaking him without a Court-martial; and complains that a travelling gentleman, after having engaged him as an interpreter to accompany him to Persia, and put him to great expense in preparations for the journey, has all at once changed his mind, and refused to remunerate him for his lost time, or pay him any of the annual stipend he had fixed to give him. His name seems to be. You have been at Bombay, --do you know him? No, answered I; but I know his story. He was thought to have been hardly used. As to the other part of his complaint, I know nothing. He asks me for 50/. I shall send it him by to-morrow s post: there is no courier to-day. Who would not wish to have been born two or three centuries later? said he, putting into my hand an Italian letter. Here is a savant of Bologna, M who pretends to have discovered the manner of directing balloons by means of a rudder, and tells me that he is ready to explain the nature of his invention to our Government. I suppose we shall soon travel by air-vessels; make air...
