He marched his army down from the mountains, and seized the whole Roman territory along the Euphrates. Severus gathered an immense force to punish this insolence. Roman dignity was not hurt when the Parthians escaped her by skurrying into the deserts; but here was a regular army established on Roman territory, and actually besieging and capturing Roman cities. Artaxerxes retreated before the advancing foe. Despite his boastful message, he was far too wise a general to risk his new empire on the chances of a decisive battle between his raw troops and these splendidly armed and trained legions. He withdrew into Persia, leading his adversary along as he had led the Parthian king; and when Severus followed with his great army in three widely separated divisions, Artaxerxes fell suddenly upon one section. It was overwhelmed and utterly destroyed by the deadly...
